PRESS RELEASE

Liz Gherna releases new single 'I'm Not Happy, I'm Gay'.

London, 14/11/17

There must be something in the water over in Los Angeles, first we had The Eagles, Etta James and The Doors and now we have Liz Gherna.

'I'm Not Happy, I'm Gay' is the latest release from the US based musician and it is no surprise that it has been welcomed with open arms since its arrival on British soil.

The song tells a powerful story through catchy and melodic verses and it is everything you would expect from a musician of this quality. Not only does the single leave you hooked but it also leaves you wanting to reach for the repeat button.

Liz is no stranger to writing a powerful record with her previous releases also finding success in the US with 'Take My Heart' and 'My Stew Blues'.

'I'm Not Happy, I'm Gay' is available now to download and stream on Spotify and iTunes and you can find out more about the single as well as enjoying a live, full band performance video recorded on September 9, 2017 at her official website, www.lizgherna.com.
